Henry T. Riley, superintendent of the Olivet Baptist Church Sunday School, conducted the sacred concert held in the First Regiment Armory Sunday afternoon and name of the other Sunday Schools outside of his joined in the exercises.

How Robert E. Burke, who thinks that all Afro-American Democrats must fall at the feet of Negro gamblers, crap shooters, and their followers, in order to become Democrats, has returned to the city from hisouting in the west.

Some say that there is ten thousand one hundred and forty colored voters in the 1st Congressional District, and this would mean that neither Martin Emerich, nor Martin B. Madden, can win out in the 1st District without the aid of the negro vote.

A judge in St. Louis lately decided that a woman or women have the right to kill any man or men whenever they feel like it. No doubt when Judge Sidener dies, the dear ladies will erect a monument unto him for granting the women the right of way in the killing business.

Miss Marion Upshur, 14 years of age, was the only colored student in the graduating class of the public school of Williambridge, N. Y. She was a participant in the program, rendering a recitation of more than 100 lines, "The Glorious Constitution," by Daniel Webster.

Miss Estella Jones, who is one of the bright members of the Olivet, Baptist Church Sunday School, took part in the sacred concert held at the Middle States and Mississippi Valley Exposition Sunday afternoon. Miss Jones possessed a very sweet voice and she sang two songs which captivated the large audience.

Ho! all ye skeptics and non-believers in advertising, read this: An Ohio girl advertised for a husband and got him. The advertisement and wedding outfit cost $14, and within a year he died and left her a $5,000 life insurance. We are not in favor of marrying for money, but use this fact as an illustration of the value of advertising.—Ex.

It is reported that Mrs. R. Springsteen and her sister, Mrs. Lewis, expected to receive each a new dress from Revs. Andy Carey, Abe Murray, Jasper Thomas, Little Beer Ward, Old Barnett and Co. for testifying against Julius F. Taylor before Judge Dunne, but instead of receiving the dresses they did not get carfare, and now Mrs. Springsteen and her sister are as mad as two old wet hens.

The new Negro church is a selfish organization for plunder. They fellowship a dollar, matters not who it belongs to. The modern service is a harangue for money. No more attention is paid to the saving of souls than a monkey gives to his last year's toenails. In fact the tendency now is to lead the violet sinner to believe that he is as good as anybody. There seems to be growing a serious doubt of a hell and no prospects for heaven, and now the question is, "where shall these mortals go?"—The Palladium.

Jake Harris, who delighted in calling us a—of a b— and many other profane names in front of Justice Everett's Court in May, 1901, has written a letter to The Broad Ax, stating "that he will fight or waylay us if we don't stop mentioning his name in this paper." Jake began the fight on us without a just cause for the purpose of helping out his drunken friend, and he may cut our throat or club us to death, but unless he is very careful he and some other members of the gang who testified against us before Judge Dunne may be arrested for perjury.

RAPID FLIGHT OF DREAMS.

Unconscious Capacity of the Brain
See Managing Pigmata in Stomach.

An eminent public man of England whose mental faculties had been subjected to too great a strain and who suffered greatly from mental depression that amounted almost to the disease of melancholia, was told by his physician that he must rest his brain. He was a very busy man and scoffed at his doctor's prescription of a nap in the middle of the day, relates a London paper.

Finally, after much persuasion, he agreed to this experiment: He would sit in his easy chair every afternoon with his hands on his knees, holding a dinnerbell in his hands. If he lost consciousness and went to sleep he would be willing to sleep for the period that it took for the dinner bell to fall to the floor and wake him.

The doctor who suggested this arrangement declared that the mere mental relaxation of going to sleep, if only for a few seconds, would suffice to save him. He invited his patient to study the activity of the brain by noticing how many things he could dream while the dinner bell was falling to the floor.

Every day for many months the man sat down after luncheon with the dinner bell in his hands. Every day he went to sleep, slept for half a second, while the bell fell to the floor, and his mental condition improved steadily, partly because of the rest which his mind got through losing consciousness for a second and partly because of his interest in the extraordinary dreams which passed through his brain while the bell was falling.

THE REFORMED PIG.

Governmental Efforts to Improve an Animal That Has Been Abused for Centuries.

Our enterprising and diligent department of agriculture has set itself to an important task. It is going to improve the pig. At least, it will see whether the pig has any ambition to improve, comments the Brooklyn Eagle. It will raise a litter of sucklings in a yard floored with clean sand; it will bathe the animals; it will feed them delicately, and for a whole year will keep them in a condition of respectability. Then it will open the way to the usual pig pen and will stand by to see if the creatures forsake their manners and eat mud and the trough.

Probably the pigs will elect to stay in the clean and wholesome yard. The obloquy that these beasts have fallen under is not of their seeking. Men have abused them by confining them in ill-kept places and feeding them on refuse. The pig in its natural state is not unclean. It is dirty when it is kept in a pen, because it cannot be otherwise. If afflicted with flies or vermin it has no resource but to lie in the mud, and as to its food, if it has nothing but the fermenting refuse of the house it must eat that or starve. When left at large swine do not usually seek filth and slime. When free to roam the woods they are no more unclean than cattle. It needs little experimenting to convince of that fact.

MUSIC TO HEAL WOUNDS.

The Violin Has Been Employed as an Aid to Surgery in Paris.

The attention of medical men has been called to two extraordinary cases reported from a hospital in Paris. A man had been seriously cut by accident and the wound refused to heal. From time to time the patient went into violent paroxysms and death appeared certain. A surgeon who had given much attention to the subject of vibrations secured the services of a violin player and treated the sufferer to a musical remedy. A change appeared at once and under the influence of the violin recovery was rapid and complete. In the other case a wound continued to suppurate in spite of all that could be done. The violin was again called into requisition and played close to the injured part, which was bared for the purpose. Soon the wound assumed a healthier appearance, suppuration ceased and complete cure was effected. In both these cases it was noted that only certain kinds of music were of benefit, showing that vibrations must be strictly in accordance with the nature of the wound.

More Men Than Women.

In all but 11 of the 32 states and territories the males outnumber the female population. These 11 states are along the Atlantic seaboard. California contains the greatest excess of men, the recorded number being 156,000; Minnesota comes second, with 113,386; Texas third, with 109,000 and Pennsylvania fourth, with 106,007.
